Any piece of research work must necessarily be co-operative, but one that attempts to take account of existing practice must be peculiarly so. For assistance in conceiving and delimiting the subject, I am indebted particularly to Professor Strayer and Professor McMurry; for guidance in executing the statistical phases to Professor Thorndike; for assistance in formulating the tests to Professor Smith; for suggestions and criticisms to Mr. Manny and Professor Snedden; and for sympathetic supervision of the entire study to Professor Strayer and Professor Suzzallo. For assistance in locating school systems doing distinctive work in arithmetic, I am indebted particularly to Dr. John T. Prince and Superintendent F. E. Parlin for schools of Massachusetts and Rhode Island, to Mr. Frank H. Hall for schools of Illinois, to Dr. Daniel A. Tear for schools of Chicago. For assistance in evaluating the Courses of Study, I am indebted to the professors and graduate students who generously gave of their time and experience; for invaluable assistance in handling the six thousand test papers, executing much of the statistical work, and for her constant encouragement and suggestive criticism, to my wife, Kate King Stone. But my greatest debt is to those working in the field. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
