When Willson s Readers appeared I was inclined to regard them with favor, and to concede them qualities which a closer examination ha 3 demonstrated that they do not possess. They give the impression that as education includes many studies, it would be possible to condense most off hem in half a dozen reading books, and the plan seems to be as well carried out as the fallaciousness of the idea admits. 2. These readers are of the usual simple character until the Third, when there seems to be a break in the gradually progressive character claimed for them. This volume is devoted chiefly to the Mammalia; the Fourth to Physiology, Ornithology, Botany, Natural Philosophy, and Miscellaneous; and when the pupil has passed big words like circulation, propagation endogenous, exogenous, silex, concentric, diameter, etc., it is deemed necessary to define renown, drouth, glade, lawn, columns, height, adhere, russet, dyes, and many more equally familiar. 3. After studying thirty pages of Chemistry in the Fifth Reader, the pupil intermits for Geology and Ancient History, to resume his Chemistry in a different book, thus rendering a reference to the former difficult, or encumbering him with two books for one study, for he must at least have the table of elements on page 426. But if the separate portions of Natural Philosophy, for example, were placed together, they would not constitute a reliable compend of the subject, nor would they make a useful book of home reference, independently of the want of an index, and the dilute verbiage thrown in to descientise it for reading matter. 4. It would be difficult to...
