For we had likd, lovd, burnt to ashes too, In half the time that we are choosing now: Variety and equal objects make The busy eye still doubtful which to tnke; This lip, this hand, this foot, this eye, this face, The others body, gesture, or her grace; And whilst we thus dispute which of the two, We unresolvd go out, and nothing do. He sure is happiest that has hopes of either, Next him is he that sees them both together. To His Kival. M1OW we have taught our love to know, That it must creep where t cannot go, And be for once content to live, Since here it cannot have to thrive; It will not be amiss to inquire What fuel should maintain this fire: For fires do either flame too high, Or where they cannot flame they die. First then (my half but better heart) 1 A line, here supplied by conjecture, is wanting in the; editions. Know this must wholly be her part; (For thou and I like clocks are wound Up to the height, and must move round.) She then, by still denying what We fondly crave, shall such a rate Set on each trifle, that a kiss Shall come to be the utmost bliss. Where sparks and fire do meet with tinder, Those sparks mere fire will still engender: To make this good, no debt shall be From service or fidelity; For she shall ever pay that score,...
