Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Tehuantepec Ship Railway: Its Practicability and Commercial Features This internal commerce is carried on through the network of her rivers, her extensive coast line and her railroads. The productions of the United States, of almost every kind, are becoming superabundant, requiring for the full extension and growth of its varied industries a commercial interchange with other nations lying to the east or to the west of her obstructing mountain ranges. The Pacific coast, with all its remarkable development of the past few years, now finds itself too far away from the markets of those nations which need its surplus productions. India and Australia are making strong efforts to supply the demand of those countries which the Pacific coast labors in vain to reach over a course of sixteen thousand miles around Cape Horn. The transcontinental railroad lines cannot afford to carry grain from Portland and San Francisco to New York for home consumption or transshipment to Liverpool. The producers and shippers alike look with anxious eyes to every project for breaking down the Isthmian...
